

SAUNTERINGS

From Where The West Begins.

By JOHN T. MEYERS.
For The Sea Coast Echo.

GISTING through "Epigrams of Love, Life and Laughter," by Anatole France, brilliant French novelist, satirist, and critic, we found the following gem of philosophic interpretation that is apropos of today's social and economical upheaval: "Misfortune is our greatest master and best friend. It teaches us the meaning of life. When you suffer you will know that you ought to know, you will believe what you ought to believe, you will do what you ought to do, you will be what you ought to be. And you will possess that joy which pleasure banishes. Joy is shy and delights not in feasting." Anatole France was not the famous writer's name. According to records he was Jacques Anatole Thibault.

BILLBOARDS MUST GO.

LOVERS of nature's unadorned beauty will welcome an edit recently handed down by the Oklahoma state highway commission. All billboards and signs must be removed from that state's highway rights of ways. Only signs designating directions and mileage will be permitted.

It is hoped that this plan will eventually be adopted by other sections of the country. So many scenic beauty spots now lie hidden behind cluttered signs and billboards, and the highway beautification movement is being hampered. The natural beauty of countryside landscapes should not be polluted by the encroachment of greedy commercial advertising firms.

10,000 IN PROCESSION.

THE feast of Christ the King was celebrated by San Antonio Catholics last Sunday afternoon. More than 10,000 participants took part in the solemn procession that wound its way to St. Peter's cathedral, where a flower-decked altar had been erected before the building entrance. This vast crowd of devout Catholics knelt in prayer upon the grass-covered lawn that surrounded the cathedral. A colorful sight was presented as the robes of the clergy mingled with the varied garb of the laymen, who were dressed in the golden beauty of a late afternoon sunshine.

Pope Pius XI instituted the feast of Christ the King in 1926. This is the most recent feast day of the Catholic church.

UNDER WHAT CODE?

THE Blue Eagle has turned wild in Texas. A youthful, patriotic Texas rancher near Houston has had NRA placed on official record as his personal cattle brand. Wonder what code the NRA branders would come under. Very likely they would request that President Roosevelt immediately call a meat market holiday, and declare the U. S. A. on a strictly vegetarian standard.

WASTING GOLDEN HOURS.

A WALKATHON marathon contest mentioned in this column a couple of weeks ago turned out to be a "gallathon" contest when the local police department suddenly decided to end the affair via the patrol wagon route. The swaying couples were brought to headquarters where they still continued their leather-burning activities.

Legal representation had them released, but the cops had caught the marathon spirit now. Two more raids followed. Police cars were kept busy hauling the marathoners to the jail house. The Walkathon's lawyers finally secured a temporary injunction restraining the police from interfering with the contest. The weary contestants are still shuffling along, having passed more than 650 hours on the floor. Only 17 out of the original 54 that started on October 3rd remain in action.

HERE'S A DISCOVERY.

IT MAY be rushing the season a bit, but we discovered that Easter falls on April 1st, next year. This date is also April Fool's day. Since 1901 Easter Sunday and April Fool's day have fallen on the same date only once, that was in 1923. It will not occur again until 1945, and will be repeated in 1956. Then, unless some change is made in the calendar, the Easter rabbit will not be able to pull any April fool stunts up to and including the year 2000.

BEER AT 10c BOTTLE.

SIGNS advertising 3.2 beer at 10 cents per bottle have made an appearance in San Antonio. This price includes beer from a local brewery, and Jax beer from New Orleans. These brands formerly sold for 15 cents. It is expected that other dealers will eventually meet the new competitive price.

BIG LAUGHS FOR MONKS.

EVERY time we see these girls with finger nails painted in bright scarlet hues we are reminded of the monkey section at the zoo. It must give the monks a big laugh when they observe how badly the modern twigs from the family tree have bent. If only some movie queen would start climbing trees and scratching imaginary fleas, we're willing to bet a bag of peanuts a lot of the women folk would follow the leader.

CAMOUFFAGING.

CROOKS and bandits are shrewd observers. Underworld characters soon learn to the identity of plain clothes officers. Any identification, however slight, that serves to make known the arrival of the police upon the scene of unlawful activity is quickly spotted by the criminal.

"It's the law... Bulls... the dicks. Scram!" is the warning cry. Away they scatter like rats to their holes.

Hereafter San Antonio police cars have used special tax exempt license plates with a conspicuous X mark before the numerals. The chief of police has requested regular plates next year for all official police cars. This will keep the criminals guessing.

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1933.

FORTY-SECOND YEAR, No. 44

URGENT IMPROVEMENTS FACE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS AND ITS PEOPLE

School Additions, Public Recreation Pier and Reconditioning and Extending Waterworks System Imperative—Government Will Finance Such Improvements—Mayor Blaize Favors Proposition.

Standing still is not going forward and unless Bay St. Louis after a period of long relaxation, fails to put in certain improvements that are urgent, we shall soon be retrograding at a rapid rate that will finally spell anything but economy.

It is no secret that the Bay St. Louis Central and High School Bldg., has long outgrown its size even though it was originally built to take care of the future. The growth of the city and of the school system and patronage has so rapidly increased that it becomes imperative to build added space facilities. This matter cannot be deferred any longer. An addition to the present building or a new building seems to be the only way to solve the problem. Then the waterworks system, the original plant which the city purchased from private ownership some years ago, is by no means in good condition. The mains have deteriorated to the extent in some portions of the city it is not possible to carry the full pressure from the main pumping station. To do so means bursted pipes or serious leaks. The time has arrived, from a sense of economy, to replace the mains with larger carrying capacity and before it is too late, to avoid disastrous results.

It is well known that the water supply and fire-fighting equipment is a combination that makes for lower insurance rate. More water and natural pressure, and that in superabundance, not only makes for a lower insurance rate, but provides for something better—protection. How long the city is going to carry the risk of over "ripe" mains and pipes and apprehension to use pressure for fear something is going to happen cannot be said. But it is certain this remedy will have to be forthcoming, sooner or later. And, needless to say, the sooner the better.

Then the matter of school building for the colored population. This cheaply-constructed two-story frame building back of town for the colored population is frail and will sooner or later have to be rebuilt. The building is certainly a fire hazard and hard to heat in the winter and fuel costs money.

It has long, and more so recently, been discovered that the one main essential of the city of Bay St. Louis is lacking for the public, both visiting and resident, is a pier. That is a subject that has been discussed and planned in more ways than one and attempted at times more than once. But it requires a little financing to do so and this lack has cost the City of Bay St. Louis thousands of visitors every summer and those who do come here for outdoor recreation cut short their stay. Every coast town, it has already been pointed out in these columns has its municipal pier. Let us enumerate again: Clermont Harbor, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula. Public piers worthy of the name. A place where there is recreation facilities and where the public is amply taken care of.

Bay St. Louis should have one costing approximately $30,000. This would build one that would be storm proof, a building or auditorium at the far end, with a further extension for landing of boats and deep water fishing and bathing.

Twenty-five thousand dollars should be expended for rebuilding the old waterworks equipment and extending service to parts within the corporate limits that at present suffers the lack of water and fire protection as well.

Forty thousand dollars should build a spacious and worth while addition to the present Central school building and ten thousand to be appropriated for colored school purposes.

A total of $100,000 expended at present on the foregoing mentioned necessities for our municipality at present would soon be worth it in intrinsic value and service twice that amount. A $200,000 value for $100,000.

Mayor G. Y. Blaize is heartily in favor of these improvements. A man of vision and progress he is friendly to such proposition not only it may be accomplished at the present with federal aid but because while it is needed it will not be long that the want will become desperately acute.

Under the federal recovery act bonds could be issued for this amount involved and the government would take the bonds at an interest bearing rate of 4 per cent. These bonds would have a three-year moratorium before any demand would be made, and since the last bonds on the Central School building will be retired next year, leaving the building fully paid, and other bonds also retired the interest amount to be paid on this

TO BUILD CAMPS FOR FLOATERS

Others To Be Set Up In Florida, Texas and California.

Camps for "floaters" will be established in Louisiana and three other states to which thousands of transient move every winter by the Federal Relief administration, it was announced at Washington.

The transient problem is especially acute in Louisiana, California, Texas and Louisiana, it was explained, because of the movement of the unemployed southward when cold weather begins in the North. Particular attention will be given to transient camp care in these states.

Louisiana's camps will be established near New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Shreveport, Lake Charles, Alexandria, Monroe and other points in accordance with subsequent demand. Smaller units will be centered in other states from New England to California.

The transients will be given work to occupy them during their stay in the camps. They will help in municipal and state improvement projects and will be located at these points until they have earned enough money to pay their way home.

State relief agencies will be in charge of the camps. Jobs given the men will be chosen according to their abilities as far as possible, it was explained.

The location of camps in Mississippi has not yet been announced.

Local Articles Of Yesteryear Will Find Response By Readers

Older residents and readers of The Sea Coast Echo during the late nineties and later remember the Indian stories and legends published in these columns by Mrs. Gertrude Cowand Penny, who died shortly after the series had been published, passing away in her young years and on the very threshold of life.

Today The Echo reproduces probably the first of the series. Although written nearly thirty years ago, the article will find a new interest, awakened by those who have read it in the long past and the many who will see it for the first time. Copyrighted its use or part thereof is forbidden unless by permission.

Mrs. Penny, is still remembered by many of our residents. It is planned from time to time to republish numbers of this series of Indian legends and stories of Bay St. Louis.

Benefit Card Party.

A benefit card party, sponsored by Mrs. A. P. Smith and Mrs. Leo Seal, will be given Tuesday, November 7, at 8 P. M., at the home of Mrs. Seal, 408 North Beach Boulevard. The affair is to raise funds for the first aid room of the Bay Central school. The tallies, which are twenty-five cents each, may be obtained from Mrs. Smith or Mrs. Seal. Refreshments will be served. It is hoped there will be a large attendance.

A bond issue would be taken care of without any special levy. The bonds, we understand, will only represent $70,000 as the government remits or rebates 30 per cent, as its share, contributing to cost of labor and material.

Perhaps there is no better argument for public work just now than later, for this is bound to come, than the reason our people need work and the expenditure will have to come sooner or later.

Our Bay St. Louis people, and they are many, are in need of work. To give them something to do at this particular time would mean many times more than at future when conditions might be better.

No firm or individuals are buying bonds now. But the government will take them. This converted into money and distributed in local channels—well, Mr. Business Man and the Public, you know the rest. More anon.

TOWN OF WAVELAND VOTES $40,000 BONDS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Money To Be Obtained at Low Rate of Interest—To Help Unemployed.

At a special election at Waveland, held Saturday of last week for a proposed $40,000 bond issue, the vote was 81 for and 44 against. The action by the town council in voting on this proposed bond issue was predicted on the federal aid obtainable just now under the recovery act. The town will give its bonds to the federal government in return for the money, at a low rate. Further, part of the money plus the amount voted for will be added and the time for retirement will extend over a long period and in manner that makes possible an easement not otherwise to be obtained.

Former Bay Resident Celebrates 83rd Natal Anniversary at Gulfport

Mrs. Charles Ham of 22nd avenue was given a surprise party Tuesday evening on the occasion of her 83rd birthday by her daughter, Mrs. R. J. Luxich, and Mrs. Henry Whichard, at Gulfport. Many friends greeted her as she returned from a ride with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. P. Taconi of Bay St. Louis. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chauvet, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Luxich, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Luxich, Prof. and Mrs. Edw. Grisland and baby, Edwell, Mrs. A. P. O'Neal, Mrs. Henry Whichard, Mrs. J. N. Clarisse, Mrs. Lena Ludwig, Mrs. C. N. Williams, Mrs. Dessie Crosby, Miss Polly Collier, Miss Julia Luzenberg, Miss Marguerite Luxich, Carwood Phaup and August Perre.

Mrs. Ham for years resided in Bay St. Louis. She is the widow of a valued employee of G. W. Dunbar Sons, when that firm operated here, and is pleasantly remembered by older residents.

City of Bay St. Louis Passes Ordinance For Protection and Safety

Official promulgation appearing elsewhere in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo, the city of Bay St. Louis has passed an ordinance prohibiting all trucks, autos and other vehicular structures weighing five tons and over from using Main street and both South Beach and North Beach boulevards. To violate this ordinance will call forth for a fine or jail sentence, or in the discretion of the court, both.

This ordinance was passed for the protection of the surface of these main thoroughfares and not only to relieve congestion but to add to the safety of the public. Such ordinance is timely and perhaps there are other measures of regulation that might in future be adopted by the city.

State Convention of King's Daughters and Sons, At Jackson

Mississippi State King's Daughters and Sons held their annual convention at Jackson the latter part of last week. Reports are to the effect it was not only a constructive meeting but a success from many angles. The present times requiring more work than ever, more relief, it was found the field of endeavor is bigger than ever and the organization prepared to take care of the situation as it may arise.

Mrs. A. F. Fournier, of Bay-Waveland, who has served as State president two consecutive terms, was the attending delegate from this section and it is needless to say how well the cause was represented.

Election of officers resulted: Mrs. Earl Brewer, president; Mrs. A. F. Fournier, vice president; Mrs. A. G. Schaffer, Port Gibson, secretary; Miss Lucy McCabe, Greenwood, treasurer; Mrs. Archie Clark, Natchez, chairman Home Board. Mrs. Fournier nominated Mrs. Brewer for the high position.

RETURNS FROM TRIP.

Mr. Edw. J. Engman returned home Thursday evening direct from St. Louis, where he made winter purchases for the Engman department store, and where he visited friends. Mr. Engman also spent a week at Chicago where he visited A Century of Progress. In all he had a most interesting and enjoyable trip and visit.

"LET ME HELP" ARE OUTSTANDING WORDS IN ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Membership Enrollment for Red Cross Begins Armistice Day—Will You Help?

Someone has said that the three sweetest words in the English language are "Let Me Help." And the Red Cross is ever saying that in times of peace as well as war—in times of depression and of disaster—Will you lend a helping hand to the Red Cross? It depends on you and me for its very existence.

We are indebted to our local chapter for services other than the distribution of cloth and flour. Another reason why you should say "Let Me Help."

Our membership enrollment begins Armistice Day. Let's be ready to renew our membership and secure new members. Let's show that our hearts are in tune with the greatest of good work in the world.

Uncle Charlie's Nite Club Scores For All Hallowe'en Dance

All Hallowe'en dance at Uncle Charlie's Nite Club Saturday night attracted many and proved a most enjoyable event, every effort of the management crowned with success. Carron's Orchestra, from Biloxi, an aggregation of clever musicians, who play music, added to the pleasure and success of the evening.

At 12:30 the special floor show for the occasion was staged. Miss Ruth Ward in fancy dancing and typical songs proved captivating. Miss Dorothy Tudary in dance captured the audience. Miss Mathilde Maurig gave an exhibition of fancy dancing and vocal selections that were pleasing.

For the occasion the interior of the club building was extremely attractive, done in tissue paper of black and orange, representing practically a week's work. The decorations of the club from time to time have always been a subject of commendable comment, each effort seemingly outdoing the other but for this occasion the artistry and effect of the ensemble was decidedly fetching. Over the three great transom windows that ornament the front were special pieces of paper that were done in the professional, big black ovals and cuts, the handwork of Mr. Albert F. Adams, well-known Chicago architect, a friend of Uncle Charlie. Mr. Adams is a draftsman and artist of well-known ability and this was his contribution to the occasion and to his friends in Bay St. Louis.

Uncle Charlie's Nite Club has become a permanent institution in Bay St. Louis, a contribution to community life and serves in many and more ways than one to entertain and sustain that balance in life so essential both to young and the older. Hence we are glad to note the success of this resort, Uncle Charlie's Nite Club, patronized by the best and representative of both city and Coast.

New Grocery Store To Open Saturday— Next Door to Postoffice

According to the advertisement, elsewhere in the columns of The Echo, Bay St. Louis is to have a new grocery store and formal opening is announced for Saturday of this week, November 4. The building was formerly occupied by W. L. Bourgeois and owned by him.

The new store and grocery will be known as the M. K. T. Grocery Company, and includes Messrs. Morrow, Koch and Talliaferro, the first two named formerly connected with the local Hill Store and the latter a retired business man from New Orleans all experienced and well-known. They solicit the public's trade locally and from away. In return they promise the best and most for the money, plus courtesy an unvarying attention. They ask a trial and leave the balance to the judgment and interest of the customer.

Meeting of Citizens Called For United Charities Activities

With the approach of Christmas it is time to think of charitable endeavor and for our own in Bay St. Louis and vicinity.

Accordingly a meeting of citizens and others who might be interested is called at the City Hall for Thursday evening, November 9, at 7 o'clock under auspices of the general organization known as United Charities. The distribution of baskets last year was one of the outstanding of Christmas charities and there will be room for this form of endeavor this year. It behooves one to get busy and assist in this meritorious and blessed work.

PARENTS DAY FOR KILN TODAY

Luncheon For Visitors at Noon—Football Game During Afternoon Hours At School

Friday, today, November the third, will be Parents' Day at Kiln Hi school. The schedule has important features outlined for every minute of the day. The most important feature being a football game with Savannah. After a scoreless tie with Bay Hi last Friday, the Kiln High Wildcats, under the direction of Coach Clark, are going through the most strenuous work out of the year, in preparation for the first home game.

There are many stunts to be put on before the beginning of the game and at the end of the first half.

A noon lunch will be served to the visitors and every effort possible will be put forth by the school to make the day a success. But the school is not the only one who must put forth an effort, says the management. They expect all parents to make an effort to be there. Now can we expect you, they ask? You will miss the best time of your life to meet the teachers, pupils, and the parents of the school if you miss Parents' Day at Kiln Hi School. "So hitch old Kate to the buggy and come, for we are expecting you."

It is expected Bay St. Louis will be well represented and Kiln will feel proud of the response coming from the Bay City. The Jordan River City cordially invites the public.

SEMINARIANS RECEIVE ORDER OF SUBDIACONATE AT ST. AUGUSTINE'S

First Time Similar Ceremony Performed In Bay St. Louis; Twenty-Nine Priests and Bishop Gerow Present.

On Sunday morning, October 29, the priests and laity gathered at St. Augustine's Seminary to witness the impressive ceremony of ordaining three seminarians to the Subdiaconate, by His Excellency, the Most Reverend Richard O. Gerow, D. D., Bishop of Natchez, Miss. His Excellency celebrated the Mass. The music was beautifully rendered by the student's choir, and was directed by the Rev. John Gaspier, S. V. D. The seminarians are Anthony Bourges of Lafayette, La., Vincent Smith of Lebanon, Ind., and Maurice Rousseau of New Orleans.

At 9 o'clock the procession entered the chapel amidst the loud peals of the organ, headed by the Cross Bearer and two Acolytes. Immediately followed the servers in red cassocks and white surplices; after these came the seminarians of the Philosophy course. The three seminarians followed these, dressed in alb, cincture and amice loosely hanging about the neck. On their left hand they carried the vestments which they were to be enrobed; in their right hand they held a burning candle. The procession of priests in surplices then entered the chapel. His Excellency, the Most Reverend Bishop then appeared, preceded by two servers, and assisted by the Rev. Joseph Shendill, S. V. D., and the Rev. Cletus Hodapp, S. V. D., with the Very Rev. Gerard Heffels, S. V. D., as Archdeacon. The Bishop and his assistants entered the sanctuary and the Mass began.

The Ceremony Described.

The reception of Subdiaconate is the decisive step in the life of the seminarian. The Subdiaconate assumes the obligation of observing perfect chastity in the unmarried state and of saying the Divine Office—both for life.

Just before the Epistle the Bishop turned towards the seminarians to be ordained. Hereupon the Notarius called the names of those to be or-

By GERTRUDE COWAND PENNEY

The calendar issued this year by the Hancock County Bank is an ideal blending of the present and past. On the new style gray card board is the scene entitled "The Historian." Two Indians upon the soft skin of a wolf are studying a parchment suspended before them upon an improvised easel of sticks, whereon are traced by the crude hand of the red man, subjects for the young savages' receptive mind to grasp.

This scene is evidently pictured, from the heart of the woodland, and it is possible and probable, may have really been enacted upon the very site of the Bank some two centuries ago.

Yet, at this later day, we can not fancy the corner of Main and Front streets harboring such a scene, for the poor Choctaw, like the rest of his nation, was way to the white man long ago who brought with him civilization and progress.

It seems pathetic to have driven the red man from his haunts of a thousand years or more, but, in the course of events, it had to be; for progress conquers all before it, and unless we march with its victorious forces, we would meet extinction in time, as has been the fate of the savage.

A century or more ago our now beautiful little city of Bay St. Louis was a mixed settlement, called by the red man "Chou-cou-pou-lou," and by the white man "the District of the Bay of St. Louis."

In 1768, when the French and Indian war came to an end and peace was made between France and England, France gave up all her territory, part of which was given to Spain. Spain afterwards gave it secretly back to France—thus for a time the little village of "Chou-cou-pou-lou" was governed by the Spanish.

About that time, to encourage immigration, the government gave grants of land to whomsoever would

WAVELAND VOTES BONDS.

OUR sister city of Waveland is to be congratulated on successfully voting for the proposed bond issue of $40,000, at special election held Saturday of last week.

Doubt was expressed in some quarters to the success of the issue going over, but The Sea Coast Echo knowing the mettle of Waveland citizens and other boosters never for once feared the final result. Numbers of votes polled in favor of the projected enterprise well confirms this.

Waveland fathers well know that hard-surfaced streets is not only an improvement but spells for economy in maintenance and building as well; that it proves an invaluable asset towards realty values and as a whole is a sustaining factor in the town's substantial being.

Bonds to be issued will be purchased by the reconstruction forces of the federal government, a certain refund will be given the town and the rate of interest is negligible, besides the term for maturity and retirement extends over long period. It is a chance that possibly will never again be offered and that a town's streets should be hard-surfaced in this time when traffic has augmented appreciably with the advent of the automobile is not to be questioned.

Waveland has made rapid strides, despite the depressed condition of the times. Both city and citizens have advanced in more ways than one. There has been more building there, comparatively, within the past twelve-month period than any other place on the Coast. All of this is indicative of the immediate future. A manifestation of a spirit that wins plaudits and admiration.

HOMEcoming DAY AT S. S. C.

SUNDAY of this week will witness the annual Homecoming and Dad's Day at St. Stanislaus College, this city.

Program for the day includes holy mass at 10:45, lunch at college at 12:00 o'clock, registration, and feature of the afternoon, football game S. S. C. versus Commy High of New Orleans. Regarding the forthcoming gridiron contest local collegians feel confident of victory notwithstanding the showing made by the Stenogens in their game last week against the Jesuits. This will be the fifth meeting between the two schools. Each has won a game, and two a tie.

Homecoming and Dad's Day is one of unusual interest at the college—fathers and sons of other years and today meet on common ground and in happy re-union and spend a day they are not prone to soon forget.

It was a happy thought when the college some years ago established this day. Its recurrence each year is looked forward to and the assembly augments. It was instituted for a purpose of bringing father and son together as a whole for one day at least during the scholastic year. It serves in more ways than one. And may it continue. Others are invited and thus the day broadens in more than the set sense which originated its institution.

This Sunday promises well. President Bro. William and faculty expect many. It is hoped the weather may be propitious in order the anticipants may visit and their fullest joys realized. Also, that Bay St. Louis, along with Stanislaus may welcome them to our midst.

CALLING THE ROLL.

(By Clayton Rand)

THE Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross is in progress from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving.

From city to hamlet the great heart of the country opens again in a generous gesture to this Goddess of Good.

No other agency pools our givings and directs them better to practical and needed purpose. Its ministrations have reached a million homes, its record a living monument to American altruism.

The clarion call that comes under the sign of its cross is a holy one, and we shall heed it.

PROTECT LITTLE CHILDREN.

Small-pox, diphtheria, and typhoid are diseases which children can be, and should be, protected against. Parents should consult their physicians and adopt the precautionary treatments needed.

Medical science has made wonderful advances. The span of life is gradually extending. Old, as well as young, can live longer and better if they will avail themselves of the benefits of science.

The President's action in authorizing the N. R. A. to shut out cheap foreign-made goods by means of tariff enactment, embargo or anything else effective to the end in view should meet with general approval, as it no doubt will do. It is all very well to pick up a trifling price, an article marked "Made in So-and-so," but every purchaser should recall that the presence of such an article on the store-keeper's counter means an American machine idle for a moment, an American standing on the corner when he should be in the shop, or a child at work when he should be at school or at play.

GOVERNOR MAY WRITE OWN ROAD PROGRAM.

THE matter of making the necessary legislative arrangements so that Mississippi can accept the $10,000,000 offered by the Federal Government, through the Public Works Administration, for highway construction, it is hoped, took a long step forward Tuesday when the State Highway Commission conceded to Governor Conner the privilege of writing his own road program, provided he would cooperate in securing the Federal funds.

In several communications to the Commission Governor Conner has indicated that he is vitally interested in the location, the cost and the type of roads proposed to be built with the $10,000,000 which the Commission is seeking from the Federal Government. In order to be sure to satisfy the Governor on this apparent major point at issue, the Commission has extended itself in acceding to the Governor's wishes, as shown by a letter addressed to him Tuesday.

The proposition is that the State borrow from the Federal Government $7,000,000 and set aside one cent of the highway department's share of the gasoline tax to retire the loan and pay the 4 per cent interest. The government then makes a gracious gift to the state of $3,000,000 of which not one cent is to be repaid. The acceptance of this money will not increase the taxes of any citizen one penny.

The Highway Commissioners state that the improvement of the highways with the use of the proposed $10,000,000, would cut the cost of road maintenance to such an extent that they could easily spare the one cent per gallon gasoline tax necessary to repay the loan and interest.

In addition to improving the highway system, the spending of this money would give thousands of Mississippians the employment they need and enable them to feed and clothe their families.

In the long run the advertiser gets the business.

This is the time of the year for the pessimists to find out why they should be thankful.

A WEEK FOR THE ONES GONE BEFORE.

THIS week, with All Saints and All Souls Day, is especially dedicated to the memory of the departed.

The custom that prevails in this section of the country more generally than elsewhere, is one that runneth far beyond the memory of generations and is one that in an especial manner gives opportunity to pay tribute in outward gesture in commemoration of the ones gone before. Placing flowers on the graves is only an outward sign, true, but behind the custom and the doing there is something far deeper, sweeter and more lasting than any flower no matter how beautiful and fragrant. The fragrance spends itself on the desert air, as it were; the beauty of the blossoms withers and shortly all that was appealing in loveliness perishes. The thought, however, lives.

But the dead are by no means forgotten, even though if there were no All Saints' Day and great garlands of flowers spread over the mounds and places where sleep those who here below will know no awakening but only in celestial realms. The memory of loved ones never fades. Faces, personality and being is one sweet daily thought. We live and have them walk beside us. They are ever with us. In thought, action and prayer. Hoping to meet them at some time is a great consolation. The gospel truth of the resurrection is the hope that ever keeps the fire of courage and hope. Fragrant and colorful petals may droop but our love and hopes never die.

Private reports received from the churches indicate that the depression is not yet over.

The people who borrow their neighbor's paper might send in a check and have it sent to them regularly.

A GREAT FLIGHT.

THE Graf Zeppelin completed, without unusual incident, its voyage from Germany to Brazil, then to Akron, Ohio, a very remarkable feat, but one which in these days, attracts very little attention.

The progress of aerial navigation by lighter-than-air craft has been a remarkable story. Credit for its success must go back to the German pioneer Count Zeppelin, who persisted in his efforts to demonstrate the possibility of such flight.

The World War added impetus to the building of these ships, although at the beginning of that struggle the Germans had not expected much from them. A desire to "strafe" England helped the Germans to improve them for longer flights.

The present Graf Zeppelin has been in service for some four or five years and has made considerable more than a hundred crossings of the Atlantic, besides one world cruise. The commander of this ship, Dr. Eckener, is probably the world's most skilful master of his art.

The annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross deserves the support of every citizen able to spare a dollar and there are not many of us who can't do this much.

TRUSTING ROOSEVELT.

PRESIDENT Franklin D. Roosevelt has impressed the American people with his honesty of purpose and his honesty of methods.

The President has not hesitated to take the people of America into his confidence, especially by radio talks, and in doing so he drops technical verbiage and talks for the average man to understand.

President Roosevelt has already brought about a "new day" in the United States. The old order has passed never to return. Government has recognized a greater responsibility for the welfare of the masses than ever before, and with such recognition it has taken when necessary equally as revolutionary action.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING

"WHERE AM I AT?"

THIS question was asked some years ago, before Mr. Volstead acquired his national reputation, by a member of Congress on the floor of the house. A present day equivalent might be "Where's the 'J. M.?' " As this is written everybody seems to have something of the same import on his mind. There is no very strong probability that either the reader, or the writer, will know the answer when this is printed, a week later, and yet we are not much more ignorant than anybody else. The man who knows, and who can borrow a little money, ought to be able to make a billion and thus join the select circle to which only Messrs. Rockefeller, Mellon and Ford are supposed to belong.

What is your dollar worth, supposing you have one? That is really just as important as it seems. You can look in the paper to find out, but you are an expert if you can understand what the figures mean. According to the price stated in this morning's paper the value is about sixty-six cents in gold. Turned around that means if you have a thousand dollars' worth of gold the government will give you a debenture which you can cash for about fifteen hundred dollars, or else it will try to put you in jail for hoarding.

Everybody says that prices are going up. The idea is that if money is worth less, or if there is more money, goods will be worth more. Anything from a loaf of bread to a house and lot is worth more dimes than it is worth dollars. If you call a dime a dollar then prices must go up to ten times what they were. Anybody can see that. The only trouble is that, in seeing one fact so clearly, they fail to notice some other facts, which happen to be more complicated. On at least one day the gold value of the dollar was lowered and other prices went down too. We stepped on the gas and the car backed up instead of going ahead.

One important requisite for higher prices is that there be buyers who can pay them. We have recently been all excited over the fact that the Russians are going to buy a billion dollars' worth of goods and will give us the business if we will only make arrangements to pay for them ourselves. Under such conditions they will probably raise no strong objections to the higher prices.

A very large proportion of the buyers for goods are wage-earners in American cities and towns. If they receive the same number of cheaper dollars then they cannot pay higher prices except in smaller quantities. Demand is decreased, tending to lower prices. Wage-rates and salaries always change slowly.

The new move in the new deal seems inspired by the farmers, who have been sold on the idea of inflation. They think that N. R. A. has got ahead of A. A. A., and they insist that something be done about it immediately, or even sooner, to change this deplorable state of affairs. Something has been done, but that something is enough to make the brain trust itself wonder what. How much it is going to benefit the farmers, who have a tremendous surplus to sell, and whose most important customers are precisely the wage-earners, is one of quantity (supply) of which cannot be controlled, keep pace with manufactured goods, the quantity of which can be controlled?

The American Federation of Labor has not been heard from on this whole matter up to this time. They are said to have five million members which means some ten million votes, counting their families, and they have, in national convention, firmly resolved against inflation. Naturally they do not like higher prices unless their wages go up to correspond. Another question which has been and will be generally overlooked is, "What is Money?" Credit may have more to do with prices than does the volume of what we usually call money. There are also problems of the velocity of circulation that are very important.

The President still has an ace in the hole. Perhaps this scheme of buying gold is not inflation at all. He can lower his price on gold as well as raise it. Congress will meet in about nine weeks from the time this is printed, and what Congress will do is another question, and a fairly big one.

A careful study of the motion of the stars indicates that the sun, with the entire solar system, is moving in the direction of the constellation Hercules at a speed of about 12.3 miles a second. This is rather fast, but our government gives the impression of keeping pace with it. In astronomy the direction of the motion is determined much better than the rate of motion. In our national affairs the rate is considerably better established than the direction. How many of you expected to see a Democratic administration raising protective tariff rates? The situation may be fairly well summed up in another phrase which was popular some years ago, "We don't know where we're going, but we're on our way," or, as the army had it in the last war, "Where do we go from here, boys, where do we go from here?"

"How old are you, darling?" she asked.
"I'm old," said Helen, "I'm nearly new."

BROWN SHEDS A TEAR—VICTORY MAKES HIM SAD.

NIGHT on to 14 years Heywood Brown, columnist and feature writer, has been a valiant scold in the cause against prohibition, says the Memphis News-Scimitar. He has consecrated his innards to the proposition that all men are created free—free to look upon the wine when it is red, or the gin when it is for a just left the bathtub. He has devoted yards of column to the end that the Eighteenth Amendment be relegated to some legal ash can.

Now, with Nov. 7 and achievement for his urge near at hand, he sheds a columnist's tear, large and moist, over the prospect. Where one might expect a fanfare from the trumpets of victory, there is only a mournful note of regret.

Inconsistent. Not at all. Brown is a congenial "laginner." He is a Robin Hood, who looks for what he can believe to be unjust, and then finds the meat and drink and joy of life in the battling thereof. To him the passing of those gladsome, irreverent Volstead days is the end of a pleasant crusade.

He sings a dirge of victory, copyrighted. The N. Y. World-Telegram has given The Sea Coast Echo special permission for its reproduction:

NEW YORK

FLORIDA has joined the wet parade. And that will leave the cause of repeal standing at dormie three.

On November 7 a whole cluster of commonwealths are to have their say and it is a hundred to one that this date will mark the end of prohibition.

But now it is too late for any of us to do much about it. If there were the slightest chance of success for a fourth time I would gladly immodestly myself upon the barcade. Like other blessings, I never realized precisely how much prohibition meant to me until the sound of its departing wings began to agitate the air. All that is left for us is to stifle our sobs and exclaim brokenly: "Goodbye, Enforcement; take care of yourself."

IT CAN NEVER HAPPEN AGAIN.

NOT in our lifetime will the fine, brave, predatory days of prohibition come again. I can assure either Bishop Cannon or Mrs. Ella Boole that the new dispensation hurts no more than it does them. They have nothing to contend with but a moral defeat. I assume that neither the Bishop nor Mrs. Boole will seriously change his or her habits simply because the fundamental law of the land has been altered. I take it that both these gallant fighters are realistically minded, caring very little one way or the other about the sentimental implications of the new dispensation.

I'm an old sofite and not a statistician. It is of any comfort to Jim or Ella, I can assure them that, even the more alcohol may be consumed under the new deal it will be received with far less zest. Twenty years from now the young folk will talk of the golden age in New York City—the era of prohibition. And they will be quite right. Even if exaggeration creeps in they cannot picture this glorious age in colors much too bright.

I have lived thru the days of a wide-open town, a compromise city and the decade of complete negation. After sampling them all I must report that there will never be anything comparable to downright illegality.

During the days of stress and strain a legend arose that we were all heroes. This we fostered. Indeed I have a vague recollection of having written several columns in praise of those pioneers who sacrificed both liver and kidneys in order that personal liberty should not perish from the face of the earth. I celebrated each gallant spirit who carried the martini targa.

But now I see all things more plainly. Heroes and martyrs and saints we may have been, but look at the fun we had. It was not solely principle which animated us as we formed hollow squares in order to defend the brass rail against the

ON THE BURNING OF FLOWERS.

(N. O. Times-Picayune)

WHEN we read of the burning of coffee, to enhance the price of the remaining crop, and the destruction of pigs, to build up a value for pork, we are likely to think, regretfully, of the loss these acts cause to those thirsting for coffee and hungering for hog meat but who haven't the purchase price. Such sentiments on our part are what our highbrows would call "appetitive and gustatory" and would not touch our artistic and aesthetic sensibilities.

But the latter emotions are likely to be struck by a kindred action that has been reported from Zagreb, Yugoslavia. Under Belgrade date line of September 18 comes word that many tons of choice chrysanthemum blooms are to be destroyed in the Zagreb district in an effort to maintain prices. Growers have decided to burn one-third of their crops, which are exceptionally large this year. This news is from the Reuter service.

Such a destruction of loveliness no doubt is, from a purely economic viewpoint, no better nor worse than the Brazilian coffee holocaust or the pig drowning resorted to recently under U. S. authority; but we cannot regard the cases as quite parallel. There are limits to one's coffee satisfaction and powers of pork assimilation, and, marketing costs forbidding, there is little opportunity of taking human advantage of over-supplies of these cretinescent. But who could there be too much floral leanness? In the absence of a sufficient market for the "mums" in Zagreb and surrounding territory, why not have flowers for all and clusters of blossoms for every household, free, gratis and for nothing, so that the year 1933 might go down in history as "the year of the flowers," just as it is recorded the "year the stars fell" or other extraordinary occasion of unusual orgies of riotous beauty?

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Mayor and Commissioners of the City of Bay St. Louis will receive separate sealed bids for the furnishing of the following supplies to the City of Bay St. Louis:

ITEM NO. 1. Two Hundred Twenty-five feet (225 feet) of Concrete or Terra Cotta Pipe with a diameter dimension of 12 inches inside.

ITEM NO. 2. Three (3) Concrete or Terra Cotta "TEES" with a diameter dimension of 12 inches (twelve inches) inside.

The above bids must be filed with the Clerk of the Board of Mayor and Commissioners of the City of Bay St. Louis before ten o'clock A. M., on the 20th day of November, 1933.

The successful bidders shall be required to furnish bond for the faithful performance of his contract.

The Board of Mayor and Commissioners of the City of Bay St. Louis reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

H. GRADY PERKINS, Commissioner of Public Utilities and Clerk of the Commission Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

deprecations of the federals. The fuzzy wuzzies of law and order never broke our square because it never did remain hollow save in brief transitional periods.

THE PASSING OF A GREAT LAW.

ON the morning of November 8 I suppose I shall read that prohibition is no more save for a few necessary formalities. And on the eve of this dolorful law I propose to hold at some convenient citadel a party to mark the passing of an old friend. Whey day is done we must embark like Columbus and his crew in caravels bound for destinations which no man wots. Snug harbors will be gone and every anchorage of habit and custom cut by the mine sweepers of federal action.

As the clock strikes midnight I intend to shatter my goblet on the floor and to go home early, never again to drink the juice of varnish or of grape. This government or any other has a nerve to nudge me on the elbow and remind me that what I am doing is perfectly legal.

Robin Hood, the outlaw, and all his men would have been chagrined and very much annoyed, I hope, if by royal edict each one of them had been created an Eagle Scout and with a stroke of the pen respectabilized.

I am not empowered to predict what Mr. Hood would have done under similar circumstances, but, speaking for myself alone, I want to say to Washington that I won't stand for it. At 11:59 I'll stand with my contemporaries as one of a brave band of scofflaws laughing at congressional enactments, the better element and the Board of Public Morals. Bong, and bong! and one more bong! sounds the big clock upon the wall just back of Charlie and of Jack. Our pumpkin of pleasure has suddenly been transformed into a coach-and-four. The rats about the place are now white horses, or at least they have started in that direction.

AN OUTRAGE TO THE OUTLAWS.

WE who lived under the green-wood tree have come within the borders of organized society. The wine of protest has suddenly become an authorized part of the recovery program. We are caught up into the wheel of service. Wild blades are beaten into ploughshares. "Here's to crime!" cries out one of the bonnie boys addicted to rum and rebellion. The chimera of the bolshy sound. The words die upon his lips. His face grows pale. The gin curdles in his glass. Legality has come like a thief in the night. Robin Hood realizes that he thinks for no better purpose than to balance the budget.

A Quick Thinker.

"Mrs. Briggs," said the new boarder a breakfast, "Who owns those ferryboats I tripped over coming down the stairs just now?"

The landlady shot him a hard look. "Ferryboats, indeed," she cried. "I'll have you understand they're my shoes."

The boarder smiled uneasily. "I didn't say ferryboats," he hastily replied. "I said fairy boots."

AUTUMN.

Autumn is coming on her way, In chilly whispers far; Her trumpet's on the mouth of day, Leading her spotted car.

The leaves are changing into gold, And soon will drop to earth; The morn and night in frost unfold, In biting tangs of mirth.

The Summer's hiding her wan face, Within her ragged dress; The rippling fields nodding in grace, The harvest soon will bless.

Come Autumn, in your russet charm, Enough of Summer's play; For soon the snow will thickly swarn, Hiding e'en you away.

The fruit in lusciousness are ripe, Born out of Summer's hand; The earth in fullness of her type, Rejoices o'er the land.

—Mayor and Mrs. G. Y. Blaize and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Craft motored over to New Orleans Saturday to witness the Tulane-Auburn football game, returning home that evening.

—FOR SALE: Cabbage, Collard and Onion Plants in any quantity. Mrs. E. Boudin, Third street.

—Miss Chaddy Elliott came out today from New Orleans and will spend the week-end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and family in Union street, returning Sunday afternoon.

—Mr. Henry Monti and Felix Roth, Jr., accompanied Mr. Phillip W. Levine of Biloxi, and this city to New Orleans, on Monday of this week, combining business with pleasure.

—Mrs. Felix Roth, Sr., and daughter Ann Mr. Geo. Diamond all of New Orleans, La., spent Wednesday in the city, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Monti in Carroll avenue.

—Miss Lucy McCabe of Greenwood, well-known State worker for King's Daughters, is visiting Mrs. A. F. Fournier at the Fournier home on Waveland beach for an indefinite period.

—Attending the L. S. U.-Vanderbilt football game at Baton Rouge, La., Saturday afternoon, a pleasant party motoring to and from was formed by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald and Dr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Evans.

—Mr. Hubert de Ben, who has been confined to his room for several days with a severe cold, has sufficiently recovered to be up and about again and has resumed his activities for the famous King Edward cigars.

—Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Carriere, who recently arrived from Chicago, to reside on the Coast, have leased the attractive beach bungalow of Mrs. Rollin on the Boulevard south of Nicholson avenue for the year. They are no strangers here and are welcomed acquisitions to the community.

—Our neighbors at Waveland are to be congratulated on the success in which they voted for the public improvement bond issue last Saturday, carrying by a substantial majority. This will provide much work this winter for the many from unemployed ranks.

—Mr. E. C. Graham, manager of Levine's Economy Store, Inc., left Wednesday morning on No. 4 for a short visit to his home in Selma, Ala., returned home by way of Hattiesburg. Mr. Levine will take charge of the store during his absence.

—District Governor Clayton Rand and Wallace Journey, field worker for Rotary Club organization, were visitors to the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club at the supper and meeting on Tuesday evening of last week. Both are prominent in Rotary and successful workers.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Briede came out from New Orleans the past week-end to spend a few days at their attractive summer home in Coleman avenue, one of the show places of that section. They plan to visit frequently during the latter Fall and winter season.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ryland and sons, Billy and Hugh, accompanied by Ross Kevin, the latter two attending L. S. U., are motoring over from Baton Rouge Saturday to spend the week-end with Bay St. Louis friends, returning home Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Ryland will be especially entertained by friends both Saturday and Sunday nights.

—Garcia & Carr, contractors and builders, were the successful bidders when bids were opened last Saturday for the immediate building of the duplex dwelling corner beach Boulevard and de Montuzin avenue, owned by Mrs. P. G. Gaspard and Miss G. Amer. The building will be two story, with gable roof, front stucco and tile roofing, modest and neat and attractive as well. Vinson Smith, local architect, drew the plans and will supervise construction.

Senator Pat Harrison Plays Golf at Pine Hills for Week End

Pine Hills golf course continues in popularity, and, contrary to rumor to the effect the links would not be used this winter, will continue thru the season, as usual. The course is in its usual splendid condition, the fairways and greens never better and it is no wonder that the week-ends find many players at Pine Hills.

The past week-end found Senator Pat Harrison playing both days of the week-end, accompanied by friends from Bay St. Louis and other coast points, the Senator seemingly at his best, shooting below his average record, as contrary it might seem but correct in golf parlance. Senator Harrison is a devotee of the outdoors and golf his favorite diversion and exercise, even though he has little time for himself.

Manager S. H. Dedeaux announces an active winter season and invites the public to Pine Hills.

Byron Harrison, son of Senator Harrison made a remarkable score last Sunday over Pine Hills course turning in a 76.

BOLD TEN AT LARGE.

(N. O. Morning Tribune)
We don't believe anyone will be grudge pardons to those 10 Mississippi convicts who submitted to the sleeping sickness experiment. Mosquitoes which students thought might transmit the disease bit the prisoners, but nothing happened. So the experimenters won freedom at no further cost. But they were willing to risk life itself on the long chance of helping to solve the mystery of the disease. That is a spirit which no mild outcome can discount. The next task ahead of these fellows will be to keep out of trouble. That may not be easy, with jobs still at large premium. Perhaps 10 Mississippi communities, each undertaking to place one man to work, could turn the trick. It wouldn't be pleasant to read that one of these men, after earning public gratitude by heroic service, was in jail again, chiefly because he objected to starving.

—His Honor, Mayor G. Y. Blaize, has recovered from an indisposition of several days, suffering from a severe and stubborn cold. However, he is out and active again, as usual.

—Due to the September drouth the pecan crop hereabouts is not as satisfactory as other years. Trees carry heavy weight but the nuts are not all filled with the rich, oily flavor of the pecan. Many are filled with inferior black meat while others carry only part. The price is low and the quality in general not up to the standard. Local growth of flowers for All Saints' day suffered similarly from the long dry season, but in a different way. They failed to blossom.

—Miss Louise Bensen a well-known and popular lady of New Orleans has returned to that city after a delightful visit of one month with her uncle Mr. W. A. Waldorf and family at their beach home in Waveland, and a fortnight at the Bay where she was the guest of Miss Josie Welch. Miss Bensen made a number of friends during her sojourn on the Coast, and was the recipient of many social attentions at the Waldorf home. She is an ardent lover of water sports and has become an expert swimmer. She plans to return in the early Spring.

S. S. C. FOOTBALL TEAM BOWS TO BOGALUSA 13 TO 0

Stanislaus-Commy Hi Features Annual Homecoming day.

St. Stanislaus bowed to Bogalusa Lumberjacks last Friday night 13-0. Two breaks gave the Lumberjacks the tallies necessary for victory. Early in the first quarter with the ball on the Rocks 35 yard line th Bogalusa boys were forced to punt; this was blocked by one of their half backs, and in the scramble was recovered by the attempted kicker. Three first downs brought the ball over for the first marker, Smith converted a place kick for the extra point.

The second and third quarters was a see-saw affair neither team having any particular advantage. In the fourth quarter after the Rockchaws had fumbled on their own thirty yard line and the Lumberjacks had recovered a pass and a buck brought the ball to the Rocks five yard line. Smith left half for the Bogalusa team broke through center for the second marker of the game.

The best run of the game was made by Garcia right half for the Rockchaws, in the third quarter he got away for forty yards bringing the ball up to the Bogalusa 15 yard line where the Bogalusa boys recovered on a fumble. The punting of Monti was also outstanding; his average kicks sailing down for forty yards or more. Good tackling was turned in by Dassel, Flink, Gianelloni, and the Bonura brothers.

Sunday's Game
Sunday, Homecoming Day, at St. Stanislaus will be featured by the annual game between Commy High of New Orleans and the Rockchaws.

Saturday night a Pep meeting has been called on the Campus. A big bon-fire will be held on the campus. Everyone is invited to attend. Music will be furnished by the College band.

Deaths

Leonie Gilbert Ramond Dies at New Orleans, After Long Siege Illness

Mrs. Leonie Gilbert, wife of Franklin J. Ramond, died at New Orleans, last Saturday morning at 8:15 o'clock at a sanitarium in that city after a long period of illness, survived by her husband, one daughter, Jacqueline Lee Ramond, father and mother, two sisters and one brother. Funeral took place at New Orleans Sunday afternoon from a mortuary parlor and interment at St. Louis cemetery No. 3. It was largely attended and friends from Bay St. Louis attended the last rites, which were from the Church of the Holy Rosary, Esplanade avenue and cemetery.

Mrs. Ramond was only 25 years of age. Of engaging personality and was a most likable character, and her untimely demise is generally regretted. The parents, who live in Sycamore street, and her immediate relatives and other members have the deepest sympathy of many in the time when shadows are darkest and blight the sunshine.

Former Bay Resident Buried at Cedar Rest Cemetery Sunday P. M.

Monroe McArthur, aged 16 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McArthur, died at the home of his parents in Second street, Pass Christian, Friday evening of last week, after an illness of pneumonia covering a period of six days. A former resident of Bay St. Louis the remains were carried to Bay St. Louis Sunday afternoon interred in the family plot at Cedar Rest Cemetery. Rev. Gerault Jones, of Trinity Episcopal Church, at the Pass, officiating at the last sad rites.

Of this splendid young fellow, the Pass Christian Tarpon newspaper says:

Monroe was a fine and promising young man. He was one of the bright scholars in the Pass Christian High school and a leader in its athletic features as well as one of the most popular members of the local camp of the Boy Scouts. On Friday of last week he played in a football game and soon afterwards was taken ill. Every medical assistance was given him, tender nursing and many a fervent prayer was offered by the great number of warm friends, but to no avail. After a brave and strong fight Monroe passed away and the announcement of his death brought tears to the eyes of his large number of friends, as well as deep anguish to his fond parents, who in their deep sorrow have the sympathy of this community.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Howard and Hampton and a half brother, John Kimble, and a half sister, Mrs. Pete Weber.

Spanish War Veteran Dies.

Thos. V. Lawler, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, but a resident of Bay St. Louis, Miss., for the last seven years, died in the King's Daughters Hospital, Monday evening at 3:45 p. m. Mr. Lawler was a Spanish American War Veteran, also a veteran of Philippine Insurrection, Chinese Rebellion and Boer War.

Mr. Lawler was a member of the Wm. J. Cleveland Camp U. S. W. V. of Bay St. Louis. He was buried in Cedar Rest cemetery with the rites of the Catholic Church and ceremonies by the Wm. J. Cleveland Camp No. 21, United Spanish American War Veterans. Its Auxiliary was well represented. Chas. A. Breath, Jr., blew taps and Miss Mary Bourgeois, taps (echo.)

Funeral took place from Fahey's funeral parlor and church Our Lady of the Gulf. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Grant Abel, Mrs. S. C. Dubourg and Mrs. M. McDonald, of Slidell, La., and Mrs. W. S. Dwyer of New Orleans.

Our deepest loss in your rich gain. And as you thread your street called Main, Each one will find just what he seeks Dispensed by jovial C. M. Weeks.

THE PRINTING PRESS.

(For Your Scrap Book)

I am the printing press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass.

I sing the songs of the world, the oratories of history, the symphonies of all time.

I am the voice of today, the herald of tomorrow. I weave into the warp of the past the woof of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike.

I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir the pulse of nations, and make brave men do braver deeds, and soldiers die. I inspire the midnight teller, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze, with fearlessness, into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak a myriad people listen to my voice. The Anglo-Saxon, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me.

I am the fireless clarion of the news. I try your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thought-provoking. I am light, knowledge, power. I epitomize the conquests of mind over matter.

I am the record of all things mankind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lights of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help Given in Fires, Floods, Earthquake and Epidemics Part of Year's Task

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John B. Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,093 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other catastrophes visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148, 340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 33 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

A MERITED TRIBUTE.

We fund him here, or he found us. The point is just not worth a fuss. We tried him in a thousand ways. Through peaceful nights and hectic days.

We gave him tasks too great by half. He fought and tamed them with a laugh. And through the dull trying hours He bore his load and part of ours.

When planning new and larger deeds. They drafted him to broader fields. His many virtues met the test. At trials North and East and West.

His visits here were few and brief. But brought good cheer and routed grief. His hearty greetings charmed us still. Though he was lost to Garyville.

In far Chicago's marts of trade. An envied record soon he made; No bond was better than his word, His ears no evil gossip heard.

He carried on in splendid way. Until, alas, there came a day; When those he served so long and well, Had left the stage, the curtain fell.

In search of fields that promised most. He turned his footsteps towards the Coast; And logically his feet did stray To your St. Louis on the Bay.

Obsessed with a desire to serve. And with a speed you all deserve, With Ford he signed the dotted line To keep you rolling, and on time.

Our deepest loss in your rich gain. And as you thread your street called Main, Each one will find just what he seeks Dispensed by jovial C. M. Weeks.

Prepared to Save Lives

One of the most valuable services given to the American public by the Red Cross is through its Life Saving and First Aid courses. Virtually all of the life guards at beaches and pools in the nation are Red Cross life savers.

Nearly every industry in America supports the First Aid work of the Red Cross because it annually saves lives of thousands of injured persons. These courses are taught by Red Cross experts in both lines. Last year 66,254 certificates were issued to persons completing the First Aid course and 78,795 certificates for completing Life Saving instruction.

KILN

The Ladies Evening Class have finished a most interesting month of work. Pastry being the main feature lesson. They are being very economical by using the home grown produce. The main object in the pastry unit being pie in two forms. The following recipes were used. A caramel custard foundation was used in making one, baking it in a cooked crust. The other was made from the following ingredients 2 eggs 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, speck of salt, 1/2 cup sugar —1 cup toasted pecans 1 cup home made syrup, level teaspoon of all spice or cloves. Beat eggs, add flour then sugar, syrup, toasted pecans, flavoring. Bake slowly in a raw crust.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

SODALITY NEWS.

As usual the Children of Mary held their regular weekly meeting last Thursday. The Perfect, Miss Alice Camos, gave a report of the Gulf Coast Union meeting. She stated that plans are abroad to the effect that there will be a State Convention held at Bay St. Louis the second week of Lent.

The chief business discussed was to draw up plans for the month of October—a month dedicated to the Poor Souls. Since the plan adopted for October of dividing the Sodality into groups of nine, each group attending mass on the appointed morning proved successful, a motion was made and seconded that the same idea be carried out during November.

Mrs. Joe Roddy gave a demonstration in making angel food cake. The following recipe used. Whites of 1 dozen eggs, beaten stiff 1 cup flour sifted four times, 1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract. Add all dry ingredients slowly to egg whites then flour. Bake in ungreased pan for 30 minutes in a slow oven. From the yolk of these dozen eggs we made a Gold cake following recipe for mixing butter cakes. These cakes were iced with boiled icing.

Our work in children clothes was thoroughly enjoyed many patterns were used and exchanged and several learned new stitches in smocking.

This month's work closed with a Halloween Party to which we invited our husbands and friends. Many laughable games and Halloween jokes were enjoyed.

We invite all ladies over 14 years of age not attending school to join us in our November month of work in which we will weave from old rags and strings the following articles—handbags, rugs, chair backs, scarfs, cushions and table runners.

Our present roll includes the following ladies:

Mrs. Horn, president; Mrs. Trivica, vice president; Virginia Dandridge, secretary; Mrs. F. B. Pittman, Mrs. J. Lott, Mrs. R. D. Love, Mrs. C. Drummond, Mrs. A. Fuente, Mrs. Geo. Curet, Mrs. H. A. Dandridge, Mrs. J. D. Roddie, Mrs. Lee Fuente, Miss Arledge, Miss Beavers, Miss Todd, Mrs. Clot, Mrs. Gonzales, Miss Ella Dubuisson.

The second year girls have been busy studying interesting decoration and made improvements in furnishings of the departments bed room and living room.

We remodeled the closet by putting in racks and shoe shelf.

We have also decorated a dressing table which the agricultural boys under the direction of the agricultural teacher Mr. Redden constructed.

The top surface was painted apple green and 3 ruffled skirt made of cretonne covers the base. Now we have a very attractive bedroom that cost us just the labor and 10c for paint. We made a wall rack and flower pedestal for the livingroom, with ferns and blooming Sultana. We have made the place livable and everyone enjoys it.

We are all pepped up for parents day, November 3, when we will exhibit our work and assist in entertaining our parents. We are expecting all parents to take part. We will serve coffee and assist in the noon lunch.

And Mamma Was So Pleased. "You must be pretty strong," said Willie, six, to the pretty young widow who had come to call on his mother.

"Strong? What makes you think so?"

"Daddy said you can wrap any man in town around your little finger."

RAMBLINGS—HERE AND THERE.

At last! After weeks of indecision and discussion the Sodality has selected the same rings as Class '33 and now we just have to wait for them to be made.

The Juniors needed no time at all to choose the pin that the Juniors of last year had as their class emblem. Of these, a ring
